JAMES HOUSE

About the year 1812, Joseph DeFields and James Gibbons built their log habitations on Talbot Street (then a blazed path through the woods) between the two Otter Creeks. In the south of the township of Bayham, at the mouth of the Little Otter, were Hollowood, Hutchinson and Thomas Edison.

In 1816, James House came from Ancaster and settled south of Talbot Street in the East part of the township. His was the only house at this time between the Street and the Lake Shore Settlement.

Mr. House was one of the surviving veterans of the War of 1812. He drew his pension from the Government at the hands of Col. McPherson in the Town Hall, St. Thomas, Oct. 1875.

He thought Nicholas Phillips and Joseph Marsaw would make good settlers and he moved them with an ox-team from Ancaster in 1817. Mrs. Sheriff Garnham, the wife of the enterprising and hospitable proprietor of Garnham's Mills is a daughter of Nicholas Phillips.

(This was copied from the Historical Atlas of Elgin County 1877)

Then a research of the "Joseph House Family Record" reveals that

James House was the fifth child of Joseph House and Rebecca Horning of Ancaster, and was the father of Charles, James Colbourn (Cobe), Mrs. Stephen Pressey and John House, a lumber dealer of Courtland who is succeeded by his son, Lloyd in the same business. (1966)

The family plot is in the Guysboro cemetery.
