Those members of the Eden Women's Institute and members of the community who took the extension course "New Lamps for old" were:

Mrs. Ray Roloson	Mrs. Charles Davis
Mrs. Leslie Cowan	Mrs. Hans Anderson
Mrs. Max Alton	Miss Margaret Craven
Mrs. P.D. Augustine	Mrs. C. D. Kennedy
Mrs. J. C. Inman	Mrs. Albert Rivett
Mrs. Ream Hall	Mrs. Morley Luce
Mrs. Reg. J. Clarke	Mrs. Charles Cowan
Mrs. George Palmer	Mrs. E. A. McCurdy
Mrs. Robert Allan

Helpers who took the course were Mrs. Verne Baldwin and Miss Catharine McDowell.

SHADES OF EDISON

We signed up for the course "New lamps for Old",
New skill in craft is more than gold.

Bring scissors and pencil and clothes pins they said.
I felt it was too much to keep in my head.

We thought that an old ruler would do
But we learned that it must be both accurate and new,

A sharp pencil was needed and also a string
To make the pattern to fit the ring.

One dozen clothes-pegs - not plastic but wood!
Because they must clamp down as hard as they could.

The evening arrived - we were all in a tizzy
Just find a table and lets get busy.

Some barged ahead; some wouldn't try it
It began to look like the scene of a riot.

Draw a long line, make sure it's straight.
How to draw a right angle was the next debate.

Then we come to the arc which misses the dot
It may be the compass, or that ruler you've got.

At last it's cut out; will it fit on the frame?
Try to hide that bulge, but it's there just the same!

We desperately need some professional aid
Before the lamp shade can ever be made.

The amount of glue must not be in excess.
If the tape were uneven, it made quite a mess.

Our decorating skill was beyond belief
We finished the course with a sigh of relief.

1967 Centennial project for the Eden H. I. was to compile a booklet containing several hundred quilt patterns collected over a period of many years by Mrs. Thomas F. Craven, a member of Eden Women's Institute.

A sample block of two hundred of these quilts was made by Miss Margaret Craven and these were bound together inside a quilted cover as a centennial project.

In the photograph above are Mrs. Hava Anderson, Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. Auel Langohr, Mrs. Lee Garbham, Mrs. Charles Cowan, and seated are Mrs. Morley Luce. Mrs. Thos. F. Craven, Mrs. Ream Hall and Miss Margaret Craven, viewing the booklet presented to Mrs. Craven, and also admiring some of her quilts.
