

A leather crafter dressed in period costume joined many exhibitors and demonstrators Friday at the Backus-Page House at Tyrconnell. The Tyrconnell Heritage Society hosted an education day for students across the region and on Saturday and Sunday, hosted battlefield re-enactments as part of events celebrating the 200th anniversary of the Talbot Settlement.

November

November days are drab and grey
The leaves dry up and blow away.
The fields around are bare again
With no more need for sun and rain.
November!

The birds have flown to warmer places
With empty nests the only traces.
The lawns turn brown and flowers die
And geese wing southward in the sky.
November!

The streams and ponds are quiet now
Of croaking frogs and thirsty cows.
The nut trees bear their autumn wares
The groundhogs snuggle in their lairs.
November!

The days are short, the nights are long
The sun's warm rays are not as strong.
The winds grow cold each passing day
And snow will soon be on its way.
November!
