SHEDDEN'S BEST

We moved here to Shedden about one year ago, they say it's the rhubarb capital, Now, is that really so?

What a cute little bank, Yes, I thought it quite kee, the only problem is,
there's no debit machine.

We really like Palmer's, the "Red and White" store,
Our first time inside
We took the grand tour.

There's groceries and there's hard-ware, dry-cleaning too. I squeezed a little fluffy thing and it said "I Love You".

The foot wear and the clothing are kept in neat row's and with a hop, skip and jump you can buy a water hose.

We were just having a fun time browsing from aisle to aisle and everyone we met that day, gave us a warm friendly smile.

As we were leaving, I'm thinking how quaint and lo and behold; they even sell paint.

We were almost out the door when I said to my honey "Don't you think we should go back and spend a little money".

There's a fire department, a library and a little strip mall. Please don't stop reading 'cause this is not all.

If you work at the Post Office you will have a hoot, I used to be there but I got da' boot. (His wife came back.)

Mail your letters, buy stamps, do this and do that, if Carol is there, I know you'll stop for a chat.

Next door is "Scentsational" they have candles galore, there's a little bell that rings when you open the door.

I almost forgot the clinic, that's where the Doctor will be. But I can't get on that list for her to see me.

To get their shots, or any other concerns about your pet, just take them to that other clinic but inside waits the Vet.

See that Church down the road with the cross high on top, open the door, go inside and that's where you'll stop.

There Kay sits at the organ, looking so proud and so sweet and to hear the choir sing, it's really a treat.

The saddest place is the cemetery, where all sounds seem to cease, I said a little prayer and I wish them peace.

I'm really enjoying the Women's Institute in this very small town, I won't find a nicer group, so I won't look around.

Now, I'm calling you members, my next of kin but please don't sell tickets, because I will not win.

Last but not least, ther's the complex, a long time it's been around. There's a new one now the old one's torn down.

I will end this now, my eye's are beginning to blur, but I want you to know that I'm strictly an amateur.
