1. Stamps Commemorating Canadian Women

Canada Post Corporation issued a set of four stamps featuring Canadian women on International Women's Day, March 8, 1993.

The set was issued to mark the centennials of the establishment of the National Council of Women of Canada (NCWC) and the founding of the National Office of the YWCA, and also coincides with the 50th anniversary of the first federally appointed woman judge in Canada.

The 43¢ stamps featuring Pitseolak Ashoona, Marie-Joséphine Gérin-Lajoie, Adelaide Hoodless and Helen Kinnear were officially introduced at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario, during a series of workshops in honour of International Women's Day.

Pitseolak Ashoona (1904-1983) was one of Canada's most popular and prolific Inuit graphic artists. Known for her lively prints and drawings of Inuit life, spirits and her descriptions of the feminine universe, she became a member of the Royal Academy of Arts in 1974 and the Order of Canada in 1977.

Marie-Joséphine Gérin-Lajoie (1890-1971) was a social reformer interested in the ills that affected the lives of women. She was the first woman to graduate with a bachelor of arts degree from a French Canadian institution. In 1923, she founded the Notre-Dame du Bon Conseil Institute and continued a long career of social action, often working with poor women.

Adelaide Hoodless, (1857-1910) born near St. George, Ontario, devoted her life to women's issues and worked for the improvement of family life in Canada. Not only was she instrumental in the founding of the National Office of the YWCA and the NCWC, but she was also a founder of the Victorian Order of Nurses (VON).

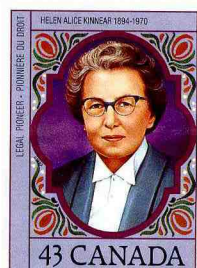

Helen Kinnear, (1894-1970) born in 1894 in Cayuga, Ontario, was the first woman in the Commonwealth to be appointed a King's Counsel. She was also the first federally appointed woman judge in Canada.

The stamp set was designed by Heather Cooper, who also designed the low value definitives series on Canadian wild flowers, the Flower Garden stamp in 1980 and the popular butterflies set in 1988.

The Official First Day cover bears a Hamilton, Ontario, cancellation and a cachet with an 1887 photograph of Adelaide Hoodless and her children.

It took a crew of six to harvest corn in 1908.

In 1900, haying was back-breaking work.

Modern haying is a mechanized operation.

Today, harvesting corn takes one man, three machines.
