Former West Elgin resident earns top geological award

If you need to find Ed Sudicky these days, chances are you'll find him spending countless hours with his University of Waterloo grad students talking hydrogeology over a beer.

It is this dedication to his students, along with over 70 research papers he has published that the Geological Society of America awarded Sudicky with the prestigious O. E. Meinzer Award.

This international award is given once a year to the author of a published paper or body of work that advances the science of hydrogeology or some closely related field. Hydrogeology is the branch of geological sciences which is concerned with the character, source, occurrence, movement, availability of water.

"When I first learned that I was to be this year's recipient of the Meinzer Award, you can't imagine how completely surprised and overwhelmed I was," says Sudicky, who received the award in GSA Annual Convention in Denver.

"I am indeed humbled that those three papers will be included in the impressive list of Meinzer Award papers."

Sudicky joined the UW faculty in 1985 and has worked his way to become a full professor and is now the chairman of the earth sciences department.

"Ed's teaching abilities have influenced a large number of students over the years. In Waterloo's porous media course Ed's lectures on stochastic approaches to dispersion initially blew most of us away," says Carl Mendoza, a professor at the

Ed Sudicky

University of Alberta and a former Ph.D. student of Sudicky. "Ed is a terrific supervisor who cares deeply about his students. To a large degree the enthusiasm and ease with which Ed approached teaching led me to pursue an academic career path."

The specific paper which won Sudicky the awards dealt with heterogeneous and fractured media - or the way water and pollutants move through the ground.

Sudicky was sure to recognize the major contribution of the paper's co-authors Darin Burr, Motomu Ibaraki and René Therrien, all former graduate students.

"As Carl mentioned, many of my Ph.D. students have gone on to pursue productive academic careers supervising their own graduate students, and all of my former M.Sc. students are either making positive contributions in the consulting industry or have gone on to Ph.D. studies," says Sudicky. "During their studies, I try to provide a research environment that is both stimulating and enjoyable, and as Carl noted, rather informal."

The preferred venue to meet with students is the Grad House.

"I want to thank my father, Andrew, who sadly passed away last year, and my mother Doris for all their support and encouragement," he says. "Dad never received a formal education, but was a very intelligent man who read books prolifically."

"I remember when I was still a graduate student and he paid one of his frequent visits to the university. While espousing his latest opinions about groundwater research directions in the presence of Bob Farvolden (professor) and I, Bob happened to mention to him that he thought that I was a pretty smart young student. Dad quickly turned to Bob and stated "that's because I taught Ed everything he knows". Thank you very much, Dad, for that education."

Mabel Kriter turns 102 years young

The Village Retirement Residence in Ridgetown recently celebrated the birthday of resident Mabel Kriter, who turned 102 last Aug. 30 and joined the exclusive Three Century Club.

Mable was born in Minto Township in 1897, where she lived with her parents William and Fanny Smith and sister Norma until she graduated from high school at the age of 15.

She married Reuben Kriter in 1921 and joined him on the home farm where they raised three children, Donald, Bruce and Jane. Following the death of her husband, Mable returned to Kerr School to teach until 1965 when schools amalgamated.

Following her retirement Mable travelled extensively throughout Canada, the USA and Europe. One of her favourite pastimes was needle work and quilting. Mable is the last surviving member of the Senior Ladies School Class of Aldborough.

She is a valued member of the Evangelical United Brethren Church and has held many offices in the Women's Missionary Society. She is presently a member of the Rodney United Church and UCW.

West Lorne resident kicks up a storm

By Chris Leys

My daughter Stephanie and I competed at the World Kickboxing Association Championship in Kentucky this past September with a total of 16 countries represented. We were part of the Canadian National Karate Team that dominated the competition.

Canada finished with a total of 78 medals (25 Gold, 21 Silver and 32 Bronze). The United States was second with 52 medals followed by England with 31. Canada was also dominant in the team fight competitions, winning the women's, boy's, girl's divisions and second in the men's division.

There were 20 students from Bernardo Karate in London, where Stephanie and I train, who brought home 11 of Canada's medals.

Chris Leys receives his bronze medal.

Stephanie's first fight was against the defending world champion. She fought well but lost. She is hoping to do better next year in Vienna, Austria. Earlier in the year she won a bronze medal at the IAKSA Junior Cup in Ottawa.

My division consisted of 20 fighters. After a bye in the first round, my first fight was against the top-rated USA fighter. The cheering was so loud and constant for both of us that it was difficult for me to hear my coach's instructions.

It was a close match and I ended up winning by one point. This was a very satisfying victory as the Canadians continued to cheer and the Americans fell silent. In the quarter finals my opponent was from Austria. This match was much easier and I defeated him to move to the semi-finals.

This match was my most difficult as I was evenly matched with the Czech Republic fighter as we had very similar fighting styles. It was a back and forth match with the lead changing frequently. At the end of regulation we were tied.

This sent us into a one minute overtime where I came up just short and lost by a single point. I ended the tournament in third place and received a bronze medal. Like Stephanie, I too look forward to Austria in 2001.

Christmas Tour 2000

The Christmas Home Tours 2000 was a great success this year with proceeds going to Tiny Tots Co-op Nursery School and the West Elgin Pool Fund. Six homes in and around West Elgin took part in the two-day event, including the home of Steve and Brenda Brownne of West Lorne. Here, Marg Webster, of Webster's Flowers in Glencoe, puts a few final touches on the Christmas tree she decorated, along with the rest of the interior of the home.
